The increase of the revenue was mainly attributable to the fact that: (i) the Company proactively responded and explored the demand from customers and actively adjusted the product structure, to increase the proportion of high value-added products; (ii) the Company captured the favorable timing of the depreciation of RMB, and adjusted and increased the sales volume in the overseas market in a timely manner, such that the sales income in the overseas markets further increased; and (iii) the Company continued to strengthen the development of the market, resulting in a stable growth of sales volume from existing customers, and orders from sub-new and new customers grew rapidly.

Cost of sales

During the Review Period, cost of sales of the Group amounted to approximately RMB409.9 million, representing an increase of approximately RMB60.4 million or approximately 17.28% as compared with that for the same period last year. The increase in cost of sales was mainly attributable to the increase of the sales volume and then the corresponding costs increase including costs of raw materials, labor costs, costs of package materials and depreciation costs during the Review Period.

Gross profit and gross profit margin

During the Review Period, gross profit of the Group amounted to approximately RMB203.2 million, representing an increase of approximately RMB52.5 million or 34.84% as compared with that for the same period last year. Our gross profit margin was 33.15% (30 June 2015: 30.13%). The growth on our gross profit and gross profit margin was mainly attributable to the fact that: (i) the scaling effect was further realized as the production and scale of the Company continued to increase; (ii) the sales proportion of sales volume of high value-added products increased; and (iii) the increase of sales volume in overseas markets, and RMB continued to depreciate.

Other income

During the Review Period, other income of the Group amounted to approximately RMB16.8 million, representing an increase of approximately RMB10.3 million or approximately 158.46% as compared with that for the same period last year. It was owing to the fact that the Company obtained a government subsidy of approximately RMB10.6 million during the Review Period (30 June 2015: approximately RMB0.2 million).

Other gains and losses

During the Review Period, other gains of the Group amounted to approximately RMB1.1 million, representing a decrease of approximately RMB63.8 million or approximately 98.31% as compared with that for the same period last year. Management Discussion and Analysis (Continued)

Administrative expenses

During the Review Period, total administrative expenses of the Group amounted to approximately RMB22.9 million, representing an increase of approximately RMB9.5 million or approximately 70.90% as compared with that for the same period last year. The increase in administrative expenses was mainly attributable to (i) an increase in the average remuneration of executives as compared with that for the same period last year; and (ii) as Hengshi Egypt Fiberglass Fabrics S.A.E (“Hengshi Egypt”) commenced operations, expenses such as product verification fees had a significant increase as compared with that for the same period last year, which was due to the fact that the administrative expenses were relatively less as Hengshi Egypt was under preparation and construction stage during the same period last year.

The increase in research expenditure during the Review Period was mainly attributable to the increase in the consumption of relevant raw materials, product verification fees and the number of research staff due to proactive research activities in 2016 in order to develop new customers of wind turbine blades and satisfy new requirements of new technological specifications of customers.

Finance costs

During the Review Period, finance costs of the Group amounted to approximately RMB4.2 million, representing a decrease of approximately RMB6.5 million as compared with that for the same period last year, mainly due to decreasing interests of bank borrowings and decreasing average balance of bank borrowings.

However, had the one-off and non-recurring gain on release of financial guarantees contracts for the six months ended 30 June 2015 excluded, the profit for the period attributable to the owners of the Company for the six months ended 30 June 2016 would have been increased by 58.56% as compared to that of the same period last year.

Gearing Ratio

As at 30 June 2016, the Group's gearing ratio (calculated as the total borrowings divided by total assets multiplied by 100%) was approximately 9.74% (31 December 2015: approximately 23.67%).

Foreign Currency Risks

Exchange risks are mainly attributable to the Group's bank borrowings, sales and purchase, and the receivables, payables, cash balance and loans valued in currencies other than RMB. We generate exchange rate risks against US dollars, Euros, HK dollars and Egyptian pounds. The Directors and management of the Company continued to monitor relevant exchange rate risks, and adopt appropriate currency hedging policies in a timely manner.

Capital Commitments and Contingent Liabilities

As at 30 June 2016, the aggregate capital commitments of the Group amounted to approximately RMB23.2 million (31 December 2015: RMB75.0 million), mainly attributable to the payments payable to the contractor in relation to the civil works construction of plant of Hengshi Phase IV Expansion Plan. As at 30 June 2016, the Group did not have any material contingent liabilities.

Borrowings and Pledge of Assets

As at 30 June 2016, the bank borrowings of the Group amounted to approximately RMB160.0 million, of which, RMB130.0 million and RMB30.0 million carried interests at a floating market rate of 4.35% and a fixed market rate of 4.35%, respectively (31 December 2015: RMB220.0 million and RMB180.0 million carried interests at a floating market rate of 4.60% and a fixed market rate of 4.60%, respectively), shall be repayable in full within one year. The proceeds raised during the Review Period shall be used as the general working capital.

As at 30 June 2016, certain properties and plants of the Company (carry value of approximately RMB112.3 million) were pledged to banks to secure the above bank borrowings (31 December 2015: approximately RMB98.2 million).

Material Acquisitions and Disposals

During the Review Period, the Group did not have any material acquisitions and disposals of subsidiaries or affiliated companies.

Employees and Remuneration Policies

As at 30 June 2016, the Group had 1,023 employees in total (30 June 2015: 1,167 employees). The decrease in the number of employees was mainly due to the fact that the Group improved the employees appraisal system during the Review Period, which enhanced the merit and demerit assessment to streamline part of the staff of production workshops. The remuneration policy for the employees of the Group was devised by the Board based on each employee's experience, qualification and capability. The Group also provided employee benefits, including provident fund, endowment insurance, unemployment insurance, maternity insurance and employment injury insurance, in accordance with applicable Chinese laws and regulations.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

1. Overall trend of the development of the industry

Significantly developing renewable energy is an important approach to adjust energy mix, tackle air pollution, reduce haze and prevent global warming. Countries around the world, including the PRC, have been sparing no efforts to drive the development of renewable energy in terms of policy, tax and finance areas.

According to the “Energy Development Strategic Action Plan” (《能源發展戰略行動計劃》) issued by the State Council, in order to boost the proportion of renewable energy in energy production and consumption, the ratio of non-fossil fuels to primary energy consumption shall reach 15% by the end of the 13th Five-year Plan period, enabling renewables including wind power to transit from complementary energy to alternative energy.

According to the Report on “China Energy Outlook 2030” (《中國能源展望2030》) published by China Energy Research Society, influenced by both institutional and technological factors, 250 million kilowatt of wind power is expected to be achieved by 2020, accounting for 12.5% of the total installed capacity; and by 2030, the accumulated installed capacity of wind power will reach 450 million kilowatt, with approximately 900 billion kilowatt-hours of grid electricity.

As pointed out in the Report on “Wind Energy 2050: A Gradual Achievement of 100% Renewable Energy for Power Supply” (《風能2050：逐步實現100%可再生能源報告供電》) published by World Wind Energy Association, wind power has gradually become the mainstream energy. Wind energy is expected to account for 40% when the world achieves a gradual 100% renewable energy of power supply by 2050.

As the biggest energy producer and consumer, China has seen its difficulty in accommodating the current situation with its traditional model of energy production and consumption. In recent years, the Chinese government has been making strenuous efforts to address such issues as electricity consumption and price subsidy. As a result, the technology level of wind power generation has been improving. Coupled with the fact that the financial environment has relatively become loose, it is expected that there will still be much room for development in the future.

2. Development strategies

Striving to be a leading enterprise of fiberglass fabrics used in wind turbine blades, which is now facing the unprecedented opportunities of new energy resources development, the Company will capitalize on our leading position in the industry, and continue to consolidate the business advantages in respect of the R&D, manufacturing, sales and services of fiberglass fabrics used in wind turbine blades, while speeding up the R&D and production of fiberglass fabrics used in blades of high mega-watts, which have potential development values. As always, we insist on following the international development direction path, further achieving the internationalization of our technology, talents and capital, so as to contribute to the development of new energy industry, and bring more solid returns to our shareholders.

3. Operating plans and main targets

Looking ahead of the second half of 2016, the overseas market will maintain its stable growth. For the domestic market, the growth will experience a year-on-year slow-down. However, the trend of increase will not change as a whole in a long-run. Affected by the seasonality of the industry, the overall domestic market performance in the second half of 2016 will be better than that in the first half of 2016. To strive to achieve the profit target determined in our annual budget of 2016, we have worked out the overall business mind-map and initiatives for the second half of 2016 as follows:

(1) Sales and marketing

In the second half of 2016, it is necessary to distinguish both the domestic and overseas markets, given their different situations, focusing on the adjustment of product restructure and market development.

Overseas market: continuing to aim at expanding the overseas market and maintaining customer relations, as well as facilitating the steady growth of total exports, stabilizing customer relations, and further enhancing customer confidence. Efforts should also be made to advance the layout of the international supply chain, striving to make the full realization of “overseas plant for overseas market” by Hengshi Egypt, and enhance the protection on supply for overseas customers.

Domestic market: continuing to further adjust product structure and the market development efforts, proactively promote high modulus products, expedite the testing and certification for new customers, expand the sales proportion for high value-added products.

(2) Testing and certification of new customers and products

Further optimizing the product testing capability and level of the Company, promote the certification for domestic and overseas customers in an orderly manner, speed up the bulk supply progress for the customers who has passed the testing and certification.

(3) Management of skills and techniques

Frontline staff are guided to participate the projects of skills and technical renovation and enhancement, foster the standardized and systematic management ability in skills and techniques of the frontline production staff, effectively enhance the targetability, effectiveness and standardization in the management of skills and techniques, optimize the Company’s management system of skills and techniques, and further enhance the technical support and service capability for customers.

A review of these condensed consolidated financial statements consists of making inquiries, primarily of persons responsible for financial and accounting matters, and applying analytical and other review procedures. Accordingly, we do not express an audit opinion.

CONCLUSION

Based on our review, nothing has come to our attention that causes us to believe that the condensed consolidated financial statements are not prepared, in all material respects, in accordance with IAS 34.
